

for the redemption of Zion. Upon Vinson's return the farm was sold at a great sacrifice. The Knights and four little children, accompanied by Newel Knight, Lydia Goldthwait and Maria Crandall, traveled 135 miles by stage coach and canal boat to Kirtland. They assisted in the building of the City of Kirtland and the Kirtland Temple. Afterward he moved his family to Adam-ondi-Ahman, where he became the bishop. Later, with the Saints, they lived for a season in Nauvoo. Martha joined the sewing circle and was a charter member of the first Relief Society. A few months later her husband died, July 31, 1842, and in September 1842 her son Nathaniel passed away.

She often told her grandchildren of the cruel martyrdom of the prophet, the sorrowing of the Saints and the solemn services; her witnessing the form of Brigham Young change to the person of Joseph Smith, and Brigham's voice ringing out in the tone of Joseph's voice, declaring him the leader of the wondering Saints. She remembered the cruel expulsion of the Saints from Nauvoo, and the crossing of the Mississippi on the ice. She recalled the long winters with crude shelters at Winter Quarters and the tedious journey across the trackless plains. The burial of her baby grandson in Gilbert Belnap's tool-chest by the wayside was one sorrow she never forgot.

They arrived in Salt Lake Valley, September 15, 1850, in Jonathan Foote's Company; and were assigned to go to Ogden to make their home. She was sustained first counselor to Delilah Pierce Palmer, first president of Ogden City Relief Society, January 6, 1856.

Mrs. Knight witnessed the grasshopper plague; she attended the dedicatory services of the St. George Temple, and worked for her kindred dead in that edifice.

After the death of her husband she married Joseph Smith, and later became the plural wife of Heber C. Kimball. Her children were Almira K. Hancorn Stoddard, Rizpah K. Gibbons, Adaline K. Belnap, James Vinson, Martha A., Rodolphus Elderkin, and Nathaniel, who died in infancy, and an infant child born after her marriage to Heber C. Kimball.

She was noted for her expert needlework. Her handmade handkerchief linen temple robe, used in the Nauvoo Temple, and a colorful artistically designed hand-made quilt top are preserved by her grandchildren. She died November 1, 1901 at Hooper, Utah, at the age of 97.

—Florence R. Ellison.

He has not served who gathers gold,
Nor has he served whose life is told
In selfish battles he has won,
Or deeds of skill that he has done.
But he has served who now and then
Has helped along his fellowmen.

—Author Unknown.

PERSONNEL OF THE FIRST PIONEER COMPANY

First Ten:

Wilford Woodruff Iowa
Captain
John S. Fowler New York
Jacob Burnham New York
Orson Pratt New York
Joseph S. Egbert Indiana
John M. Freeman Kentucky
Marcus B. Thorpe Connecticut
George A. Smith New York
George Wardle England

Second Ten:

Ezra T. Benson Massachusetts
Captain
Thomas B. Grover New York
Barnabas L. Adams Vermont
Roswell Stevens Canada
Amasa M. Lyman New Hampshire
Starling G. Driggs Pennsylvania
Albert Carrington Vermont
Thomas Bullock England
George W. Brown Ohio
Willard Richards Massachusetts
Jesse C. Little Maine

Third Ten:

Phineas H. Young Massachusetts
Captain
John Y. Green New York
Thomas Tanner England
Brigham Young Vermont
Addison Everett New York
Truman O. Angell Rhode Island
Lorenzo D. Young Illinois
Bryant Stringham New York
Joseph S. Scofield New York
Albert P. Rockwood Massachusetts

Fourth Ten:

Luke S. Johnson Vermont
Captain
John G. Holman New York
Edmund Ellsworth New York
Alvarus Hanks Ohio
George R. Grant Ohio
Millen Atwood Connecticut
Samuel B. Fox New York
Tunis Rappleyee New York
Harvey Pierce Pennsylvania
William Dykes Pennsylvania
Jacob Weiler Tennessee

Fifth Ten:

Stephen H. Goddard New York
Captain
Tarleton Lewis South Carolina
Henry G. Sherwood New York
Zebedee Coltrin New York
Sylvester H. Earl Ohio
John Dixon England
Samuel H. Marble New York
George Scholes England
William Henrie Pennsylvania
William A. Empey Connecticut

Sixth Ten:

Charles Shumway Massachusetts
Captain
Andrew Shumway Massachusetts
Thomas Woolsey Kentucky
Chauncey Loveland Connecticut
Erastus Snow Vermont
James Craig Ireland
William Wordsworth New Jersey
William Vance Tennessee
Simeon Howd New York
Seeley Owen Vermont

Seventh Ten:

James Case Connecticut
Captain
Artemus Johnson New York
William C. A. Smoot Tennessee
Franklin Dewey Massachusetts
William Carter England
Franklin G. Losee Maine
Burr Frost Connecticut
Datus Ensign Massachusetts
Franklin B. Stewart Ohio
Monroe Frink Ohio
Eric Glines Vermont
Ozro Eastman Vermont

Eighth Ten:

Seth Taft Massachusetts
Captain
Horace Thornton New York
Stephen Kelsey Ohio
John S. Eldredge New York
Charles B. Barnum Canada
Alma M. Williams Connecticut
Rufus Allen Connecticut
Robert T. Thomas North Carolina
James W. Stewart Alabama
Elijah Newman Virginia
Levi N. Kendall New York
Francis Boggs Ohio
David Grant Scotland

Ninth Ten:

Howard Egan Ireland
Heber C. Kimball Vermont
William A. King Pennsylvania
Thomas Cloward Pennsylvania
Hosea Cushing Massachusetts
Robert Baird Ireland
George P. Billings Ohio
Edson Whipple Vermont
Philo Johnson Connecticut
William Clayton England

Tenth Ten:

Appleton M. Harmon Pennsylvania
Captain
Carlos Murray New York
Horace K. Whitney Ohio
Orson K. Whitney Ohio
Orrin P. Rockwell New York
Nathaniel T. Brown Ohio
R. Jackson Redden Ohio

John Pack Connecticut
 Francis Pomeroy Connecticut
 Aaron Farr Vermont
 Nathaniel Fairbanks New York

Eleventh Ten:

John S. Higbee
 Captain
 John Wheeler South Carolina
 Solomon Chamberlain Connecticut
 Conrad Klineman
 Joseph Rooker
 Perry Fitzgerald Pennsylvania
 John H. Tippets New Hampshire
 James Davenport Vermont
 Henson Walker New York
 Benjamin Rolfe Maine

Twelfth Ten:

Morton Jacobs Massachusetts
 Captain
 Charles A. Harper Pennsylvania
 George Woodard New Jersey
 Stephen Markham New York
 Lewis Barney New York
 George Mills
 Andrew Gibbons Ohio
 Joseph Hancock Massachusetts
 John W. Norton Indiana

Thirteenth Ten:

John Brown Tennessee
 Captain
 Shadrach Roundy Vermont
 Levi Jackman Vermont
 Lyman Curtis Massachusetts

In that first company to enter the valley were seventeen Saints who had wintered in Pueblo, and who met the main company at Old Fort Laramie, whose names are as follows: Robert Crow, Elizabeth Crow, Benjamin B. Crow, Harriet Crow, Elizabeth Jane Crow Therlkill, John McHenry Crow, Walter H. Crow, William Parker Crow, Isa Vinda Exene Crow, Ira Minda Almerene Crow, George W. Therlkill, Matilda Jane Therlkill, Milton Howard Therlkill, James William Therlkill, Archibald Little, James Chesney and Lewis B. Meyers. They were from the Southern States, Mississippi and Tennessee, and gave their contributions to the West.

Pioneers with faith and courage, bravely faced the savage hoard,
 Though the way was long and weary, put their trust in Christ the Lord

Cheerfully each day they journeyed, singing praises to His name;
 Home and rest were e'er their beacon, as they trudged the dusty plain.

Sagebrush wilds thro' earnest effort, turned to beauteous fruited plains,
 And the desert of the mountains yielded wealth of golden grain.

"Better than they knew" they builded—Pioneers, our Pioneers,
 We will e'er your mem'ry honor, throughout all the coming years.

—Martha Burton Cooley.

Hans C. Hansen Denmark
 Matthew Ivory Pennsylvania
 David Powers South Carolina
 Hark Lay (colored) Mississippi
 Oscar Crosby (colored) Virginia

Fourteenth Ten:

Joseph Matthews North Carolina
 Captain
 Gilbroid Summe North Carolina
 John S. Gleason New York
 Charles Burke Ohio
 Alexander P. Chessley Virginia
 Rodney Badger Vermont
 Norman Taylor Ohio
 Green Flake (colored), North Carolina
 Ellis Eames

Women:

Harriet Page Wheeler Young
 New Hampshire
 Wife of Lorenzo D. Young
 Clara Decker Young
 New York
 Wife of Brigham Young
 Ellen Sanders Kimball
 Norway
 Wife of Heber C. Kimball

Children:

Isaac Perry Decker
 Illinois
 Stepson of Lorenzo D. Young
 Lorenzo Sobieski
 Illinois
 Son of Lorenzo D. Young

BRIGHAM YOUNG

From a humble beginning yet with a background of soldierly ancestors, Brigham Young, second president of the Church, rose to heights in leadership and character which placed him among the great men of the world. His grandfather, Joseph Young, saw active service in the French and Indian wars while his father, John Young, served with George Washington in the Revolutionary War.

Brigham Young was born June 1, 1801, in a log cabin on newly cleared land in Whittingham, Vermont, where his adventuresome, pioneering father had moved from Hopkinton, Massachusetts, at the close of the war. The physical build, and strong, forceful, yet kindly character of Brigham Young attracted favorable comment from many students of human nature during his life. Many who were personally acquainted with him and many others reading from photographs of the pioneer leader, were high in their estimates of his character.

Professor Fowler in his book, Human Science, published during the lifetime of Brigham Young, describes his human temperaments and then continues: "Brigham Young had this union of all temperaments, large yet equal. He is about six feet high, yet perfectly symmetrical, though a little way off he seems too stocky. He is very broad built, yet sharp features and has a muscular system of remarkable power; besides being very florid thus embodying all the conditions of true greatness, or tremendous power of body and mind and only one thus organized could have accomplished what he has. His organization corrected and greatly enhanced my estimation of him."

Although trained in an atmosphere of piety, he did not become identified with a religious sect until 20 years of age. At that time he became a Methodist, following the footsteps of his parents. Always a profound student of the Bible, Brigham Young readily accepted the religious teachings of Joseph Smith. Brigham Young found in his new leader a friend, and in many of the trials and tribulations which were to follow the "Mormons" wherever they traversed, the larger man defended Joseph Smith with fist and tongue. On February 14, 1835, Brigham Young was ordained a member of the Council of the Twelve. The newly appointed Apostle helped organize the European Mission in 1840 and showed his leadership qualities at an early stage while on a mission to England. While there he founded the Millennial Star, Church publication, which has been published continuously since that time, and organized the European Emigration Bureau, sending the first company of

for the redemption of Zion. Upon Vinson's return the farm was sold at a great sacrifice. The Knights and four little children, accompanied by Newel Knight, Lydia Goldthwait and Maria Crandall, traveled 135 miles by stage coach and canal boat to Kirtland. They assisted in the building of the City of Kirtland and the Kirtland Temple. Afterward he moved his family to Adam-ondi-Ahman, where he became the bishop. Later, with the Saints, they lived for a season in Nauvoo. Martha joined the sewing circle and was a charter member of the first Relief Society. A few months later her husband died, July 31, 1842, and in September 1842 her son Nathaniel passed away.

She often told her grandchildren of the cruel martyrdom of the prophet, the sorrowing of the Saints and the solemn services; her witnessing the form of Brigham Young change to the person of Joseph Smith, and Brigham's voice ringing out in the tone of Joseph's voice, declaring him the leader of the wondering Saints. She remembered the cruel expulsion of the Saints from Nauvoo, and the crossing of the Mississippi on the ice. She recalled the long winters with crude shelters at Winter Quarters and the tedious journey across the trackless plains. The burial of her baby grandson in Gilbert Belnap's tool-chest by the wayside was one sorrow she never forgot.

They arrived in Salt Lake Valley, September 15, 1850, in Jonathan Foote's Company; and were assigned to go to Ogden to make their home. She was sustained first counselor to Delilah Pierce Palmer, first president of Ogden City Relief Society, January 6, 1856.

Mrs. Knight witnessed the grasshopper plague; she attended the dedicatory services of the St. George Temple, and worked for her kindred dead in that edifice.

After the death of her husband she married Joseph Smith, and later became the plural wife of Heber C. Kimball. Her children were Almira K. Hancorn Stoddard, Rizpah K. Gibbons, Adaline K. Belnap, James Vinson, Martha A., Rodolphus Elderkin, and Nathaniel, who died in infancy, and an infant child born after her marriage to Heber C. Kimball.

She was noted for her expert needlework. Her handmade handkerchief linen temple robe, used in the Nauvoo Temple, and a colorful artistically designed hand-made quilt top are preserved by her grandchildren. She died November 1, 1901 at Hooper, Utah, at the age of 97.

—Florence R. Ellison.

He has not served who gathers gold,
Nor has he served whose life is told
In selfish battles he has won,
Or deeds of skill that he has done,
But he has served who now and then
Has helped along his fellowmen.

—Author Unknown.

PERSONNEL OF THE FIRST PIONEER COMPANY

First Ten:

Wilford Woodruff Iowa
Captain
John S. Fowler New York
Jacob Burnham New York
Orson Pratt New York
Joseph S. Egbert Indiana
John M. Freeman Kentucky
Marcus B. Thorpe Connecticut
George A. Smith New York
George Wardle England

Second Ten:

Ezra T. Benson Massachusetts
Captain
Thomas B. Grover New York
Barnabas L. Adams Vermont
Roswell Stevens Canada
Amasa M. Lyman New Hampshire
Starling G. Driggs Pennsylvania
Albert Carrington Vermont
Thomas Bullock England
George W. Brown Ohio
Willard Richards Massachusetts
Jesse C. Little Maine

Third Ten:

Phineas H. Young Massachusetts
Captain
John Y. Green New York
Thomas Tanner England
Brigham Young Vermont
Addison Everett New York
Truman O. Angell Rhode Island
Lorenzo D. Young Illinois
Bryant Stringham New York
Joseph S. Scofield New York
Albert P. Rockwood Massachusetts

Fourth Ten:

Luke S. Johnson Vermont
Captain
John G. Holman New York
Edmund Ellsworth New York
Alvarus Hanks Ohio
George R. Grant Connecticut
Millen Atwood Connecticut
Samuel B. Fox New York
Tunis Rappleyee New York
Harvey Pierce Pennsylvania
William Dykes Pennsylvania
Jacob Weiler Tennessee

Fifth Ten:

Stephen H. Goddard New York
Captain
Tarlton Lewis South Carolina
Henry G. Sherwood New York
Zebedee Coltrin New York
Sylvester H. Earl Ohio
John Dixon England
Samuel H. Marble New York
George Scholes England
William Henrie Pennsylvania
William A. Empey Connecticut

Sixth Ten:

Charles Shumway Massachusetts
Captain
Andrew Shumway Massachusetts
Thomas Woolsey Kentucky
Chauncey Loveland Connecticut
Erastus Snow Vermont
James Craig Ireland
William Wordsworth New Jersey
William Vance Tennessee
Simcon Howd New York
Seeley Owen Vermont

Seventh Ten:

James Case Connecticut
Captain
Artemus Johnson New York
William C. A. Smoot Tennessee
Franklin Dewey Massachusetts
William Carter England
Franklin G. Losee Maine
Burr Frost Connecticut
Datus Ensign Massachusetts
Franklin B. Stewart Ohio
Monroe Frink Vermont
Eric Glines Vermont
Ozro Eastman Vermont

Eighth Ten:

Seth Taft Massachusetts
Captain
Horace Thornton New York
Stephen Kelsey Ohio
John S. Eldredge New York
Charles B. Barnum Canada
Alma M. Williams Connecticut
Rufus Allen Connecticut
Robert T. Thomas North Carolina
James W. Stewart Alabama
Elijah Newman Virginia
Levi N. Kendall New York
Francis Boggs Ohio
David Grant Scotland

Ninth Ten:

Howard Egan Ireland
Heber C. Kimball Vermont
William A. King Pennsylvania
Thomas Cloward Pennsylvania
Hosea Cushing Massachusetts
Robert Baird Ireland
George P. Billings Ohio
Edson Whipple Vermont
Philo Johnson Connecticut
William Clayton England

Tenth Ten:

Appleton M. Harmon Pennsylvania
Captain
Carlos Murray New York
Horace K. Whitney Ohio
Orson K. Whitney Ohio
Orrin P. Rockwell New York
Nathaniel T. Brown Ohio
R. Jackson Redden Ohio

John Pack Connecticut
Francis Pomeroy Connecticut
Aaron Farr Vermont
Nathaniel Fairbanks New York

Eleventh Ten:

John S. Higbee
 Captain
John Wheeler South Carolina
Solomon Chamberlain Connecticut
Conrad Klineman
Joseph Rooker
Perry Fitzgerald Pennsylvania
John H. Tippets New Hampshire
James Davenport Vermont
Henson Walker New York
Benjamin Rolfe Maine

Twelfth Ten:

Morton Jacobs Massachusetts
 Captain
Charles A. Harper Pennsylvania
George Woodard New Jersey
Stephen Markham New York
Lewis Barney New York
George Mills
Andrew Gibbons Ohio
Joseph Hancock Massachusetts
John W. Norton Indiana

Thirteenth Ten:

John Brown Tennessee
 Captain
Shadrach Roundy Vermont
Levi Jackman Vermont
Lyman Curtis Massachusetts

In that first company to enter the valley were seventeen Saints who had wintered in Pueblo, and who met the main company at Old Fort Laramie, whose names are as follows: Robert Crow, Elizabeth Crow, Benjamin B. Crow, Harriet Crow, Elizabeth Jane Crow Therlkill, John McHenry Crow, Walter H. Crow, William Parker Crow, Isa Vinda Exene Crow, Ira Minda Almerene Crow, George W. Therlkill, Matilda Jane Therlkill, Milton Howard Therlkill, James William Therlkill, Archibald Little, James Chesney and Lewis B. Meyers. They were from the Southern States, Mississippi and Tennessee, and gave their contributions to the West.

Pioneers with faith and courage, bravely faced the savage hoard,
Though the way was long and weary, put their trust in Christ the Lord.

Cheerfully each day they journeyed, singing praises to His name;
Home and rest were e'er their beacon, as they trudged the dusty plain.

Sagebrush wilds thro' earnest effort, turned to beauteous fruited plains,
And the desert of the mountains yielded wealth of golden grain.

"Better than they knew" they builded—Pioneers, our Pioneers,
We will e'er your mem'ry honor, throughout all the coming years.

—Martha Burton Cooley.

Hans C. Hansen Denmark
Matthew Ivory Pennsylvania
David Powers South Carolina
Hark Lay (colored) Mississippi
Oscar Crosby (colored) Virginia

Fourteenth Ten:

Joseph Matthews North Carolina
 Captain
Gilbroid Summe North Carolina
John S. Gleason New York
Charles Burke Ohio
Alexander P. Chessley Virginia
Rodney Badger Vermont
Norman Taylor Ohio
Green Flake (colored), North Carolina
Ellis Eames

Women:

Harriet Page Wheeler Young
 New Hampshire
Wife of Lorenzo D. Young
 Clara Decker Young
 New York
Wife of Brigham Young
 Ellen Sanders Kimball
 Norway
Wife of Heber C. Kimball

Children:

Isaac Perry Decker
 Illinois
Stepson of Lorenzo D. Young
 Lorenzo Sobieski
 Illinois
Son of Lorenzo D. Young

BRIGHAM YOUNG

From a humble beginning yet with a background of soldierly ancestors, Brigham Young, second president of the Church, rose to heights in leadership and character which placed him among the great men of the world. His grandfather, Joseph Young, saw active service in the French and Indian wars while his father, John Young, served with George Washington in the Revolutionary War.

Brigham Young was born June 1, 1801, in a log cabin on newly cleared land in Whittingham, Vermont, where his adventuresome, pioneering father had moved from Hopkinton, Massachusetts, at the close of the war. The physical build, and strong, forceful, yet kindly character of Brigham Young attracted favorable comment from many students of human nature during his life. Many who were personally acquainted with him and many others reading from photographs of the pioneer leader, were high in their estimates of his character.

Professor Fowler in his book, Human Science, published during the lifetime of Brigham Young, describes his human temperaments and then continues: "Brigham Young had this union of all temperaments, large yet equal. He is about six feet high, yet perfectly symmetrical, though a little way off he seems too stocky. He is very broad built, yet sharp features and has a muscular system of remarkable power; besides being very florid thus embodying all the conditions of true greatness, or tremendous power of body and mind and only one thus organized could have accomplished what he has. His organization corrected and greatly enhanced my estimation of him."

Although trained in an atmosphere of piety, he did not become identified with a religious sect until 20 years of age. At that time he became a Methodist, following the footsteps of his parents. Always a profound student of the Bible, Brigham Young readily accepted the religious teachings of Joseph Smith. Brigham Young found in his new leader a friend, and in many of the trials and tribulations which were to follow the "Mormons" wherever they traversed, the larger man defended Joseph Smith with fist and tongue. On February 14, 1835, Brigham Young was ordained a member of the Council of the Twelve. The newly appointed Apostle helped organize the European Mission in 1840 and showed his leadership qualities at an early stage while on a mission to England. While there he founded the Millennial Star, Church publication, which has been published continuously since that time, and organized the European Emigration Bureau, sending the first company of